

ABSTRACT

This invention provides a separator for electrical and electronic parts with a good electrolyte retention, which is coated with at least one substance selected from ionic substances, hydroxyl group-containing substances and silicon compounds.